

Courses of Study

THESE listings give faculty, programs, and course offerings of the various departments and programs offering graduate instruction. The names and ranks of faculty members engaged in graduate instruction are shown with these department and program listings.

Explanation of Symbols

200-level courses listed in this catalog may be taken by graduate students for credit unless a specific restriction is indicated in the course description and provided there is no duplication of the student's previous courses.

300-level courses are graduate courses. They are on a level normally considered too high for undergraduates and are not open to undergraduates without consent of the instructor, the adviser, and the Graduate School. Courses in the graduate program in religion carry four-digit numbers. Generally, courses in religion numbered greater than 3000 are at a higher level than those numbered 2000.

Length of a course (one semester or two) is indicated by whether it has a single or double number. Double-number courses may be divided at the option of the student if the numbers are different.

210–211. Note that numbers are different, indicating that students may take either semester without the other, at their own option. In the election of such options, students must not disregard statements of prerequisites or the major department's requirements.

220a–220b. Note that numbers are the same, indicating a year-long course.

The semester in which a one-semester course is offered is indicated by the word FALL (or SPRING) in the course description, or FALL, SPRING in the case of a course offered both semesters. All two-semester courses begin in FALL and end in SPRING unless the course description specifies otherwise.

Hours referred to are semester hours, and figures in brackets always indicate semester hours credit—e.g., 3 for one semester and 3–3 for a two-semester course.

Formal course work means all courses taken for credit except thesis and dissertation research courses.
