Morrow played soccer at Queens College for two years before transferring to Lipscomb University where he received his Bachelor of Science in Physical Education and Health in 1997. He played soccer at Lipscomb serving as team captain in his junior (1994) and senior (1995) seasons. Following his two years of playing for the Bison soccer team, he was an assistant coach for one season at Lipscomb (1996). Morrow holds a USSF B Coaching License.

Eric Vaughter joined the Vanderbilt staff in 2000 as goalkeeper coach for both the men's and women's programs. He is a goalkeeper trainer on the U.S. Soccer National Coaching Staff. FACILITY

In the fall of 2002, the Commodores began a new era with the opening of the Vanderbilt Soccer Complex, the latest of Vanderbilt's new athletic facilities to open. The stadium is located behind the McGugin Center on the site of the old soccer field. Featuring seating for 2,400 fans, the complex is the new home for men's soccer, women's soccer and women's lacrosse. At a cost of almost two million dollars, the new facility features improvements for fans, media and players alike. Players compete on the new Tiftsport grass field, which was installed during the summer of 2002. Above the field, a new lighting system was installed on four 90 foot towers that will improve visibility for night games.
