This study was conducted in 1996 by APOYO, S.A. The data is gathered from a multistage national probability sample survey. All interviews were face-to-face and lasted an average of a half an hour each. The sample was first stratified by region, then by department, and lastly by urban or rural. An extensive analysis of this data can be found at “Political Support, Political Skepticism and Political Stability in New Democracies: An Empirical Examination of Mass Support for Coups d’Etat in Peru” by Mitchell A. Seligson and Julio Carrión, published in Comparative Political Studies, Vol 35, No 1. (February 2002) pp. 58-82 and also at the LAPOP website, www.lapopsurveyus.org.

Both authors participated in the design of the questionnaire for the 1996 survey, but the ultimate execution of the field work was entirely under the control of APOYO S.A.
