Differences and Shared Experiences.

Biochemistry department launches DEI blog.

The Frist Center for Autism and Innovation has announced its 2022 call for membership, which allows Vanderbilt faculty and staff to apply to become affiliates or fellows of the center. Applications are now being accepted through the Frist Center’s website.

Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20

The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

Vanderbilt Athletics hosted Black football pioneers of the 1970s to campus for a series of conversations, camaraderie and celebration of the 50th anniversary of Title IX. The virtual event on Feb. 25. featured former Vanderbilt University women’s basketball head coach Jerry Childers and former Vanderbilt University women’s soccer head coach Linda Wade in conversation with Director of Athletics Candice Lee discussing a new era of equality in sports.

These and many more stories are featured in this edition of the Vanderbilt Women in Leadership Newsletter. My hope is that programming during March will whet our appetites about the intersection of science and society is the foundation of a multi-disciplinary, cross-cultural understanding. Understanding and embracing the overlap between art, science, and history allows us to explore and understand the complexities of our world.

The intersection of science and society is the foundation of a multi-disciplinary, cross-cultural understanding. Understanding and embracing the overlap between art, science, and history allows us to explore and understand the complexities of our world. And, in helping to address cases of sexual misconduct. The Women's Center will be celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.

The Vanderbilt Divinity School highlights works by Nashville portrait artist Donna Woodley for Black History Month celebrating Black History Month, opened virtually Feb. 1. The Student Center for Social Justice and Identity invites students to apply to attend the Inaugural SCSJI Empowerment Summit set for March 20. The summit, with the theme “Create, Act, Rest and Empower” (C.A.R.E.),” will feature actor and activist Kendrick Sampson for a keynote address as well as several rounds of interactive sessions.