When should I contact VEC?

1. Whenever you have any export control concerns, questions or issues related to your Vanderbilt University duties and responsibilities.
2. Equipment, software, samples or technical data will be temporarily or permanently exported from the U.S.
3. You will be working with prototypes, software, samples or technical data; particularly if supplied by the sponsor or third party.
4. ITAR controlled equipment, software, samples or technical data may be used or generated in the conduct of the proposed activities.
5. Any work or communication with an individual from or entities affiliated with North Korea, Iran, Cuba, Syria, Sudan.
6. Any party, such as an individual, company or other organization, to the proposal, award or other agreement is a foreign military or a party acting on behalf of a foreign military.
7. A sponsor, collaborator, or other party asks you to exclude or restrict the participation of foreign nationals; tells you that the information, materials, software, equipment, etc. are subject to export controls; requests you not to publish or discuss your results without prior approval.
8. When the results of research or development have an obvious military use or purpose.