Yolanda McDonald

Assistant Professor of Human and Organizational Development
Peabody College

Yolanda describes herself as a “medical geographer”: Her research uses geospatial approaches to investigate health outcomes and disparities, tackling issues from preventing cervical cancer to fighting for drinking water justice. Yolanda is now helping chart a new path for Vanderbilt as member of the Climate, Environment, and Energy Futures Working Group.

Karl Zelik

Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering and Biomedical Engineering
School of Engineering
Assistant Professor of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation
School of Medicine Clinical Sciences

Karl runs the Biomechanics & Assistive Technology (BAT) Lab and is the CSO of HeroWear, a new venture founded on his lift-assist exosuit. This year, Karl became the first awardee in Pathfinder, Vanderbilt's partnership with the Army Futures Command and the University of Tennessee system, for his Soldier Assistive Bionic Exosuit for Resupply (SABER).

Elizabeth Zechmeister
 Cornelius Vanderbilt Professor of Political Science
 Director, Latin American Public Opinion Project (LAPOP)
 College of Arts and Science

Liz is a member of the VU Research Council and leads a team of ~38 student, post-doc and staff at LAPOP. LAPOP conducts Americas Barometer, a public opinion survey on democracy covering 34 countries supported by USAID, that has been cited everywhere from the United Nations to the 2021 Ecuadorian presidential elections.

Charles Sanders

Associate Dean for Research

Professor of Biochemistry and Medicine

Aileen M. Lange & Annie Mary Lyle Chair in Cardiovascular Research

School of Medicine Basic Sciences and School of Medicine Clinical Sciences

Chuck's research team examines how defects in membrane proteins contribute to human disease, including his current project on treatments for Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease that was just accepted into Ancora, Vanderbilt's partnership with Deerfield. He also helped bring in-person research back to campus during COVID through the Research Ramp-up Working Group, is a member of the VU Research Council.

Q&A

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY

Office of the Provost

Q: I need help developing and submitting my first proposal at VU. Who can I go to for help?

Joanne Spitz

Director of Research Development

A: Reach out to Joanne Spitz and our team in Research Development and Support. They will help you with federal and foundation opportunities, including proposal preparation, building sponsor relationships etc.

Contact Joanne at joanne.m.spitz@Vanderbilt.edu or the larger RDS team at rds@Vanderbilt.edu.

Q: I'm trying to start a study that involves human subjects. Who can connect me to the right resources to get started?

Liane Moneta-Koehler
Director of Research Development and Support

A: Liane Moneta-Koehler and her team manage compliance functions from export control to coordinating with Vanderbilt's IRB and IACUC to support faculty leading studies with human or animal subjects, respectively.

Contact Liane at liane.monetakoehler@Vanderbilt.edu, the export control team at vec@Vanderbilt.edu, or the larger RDS team at rds@Vanderbilt.edu.

Q: I need to transfer ongoing grants from my previous institution to VU. How do I get started?

David Wright
*Associate Dean for Research
College of Arts & Science*

James P. Byrd
*Associate Dean for Research and Graduate Education
Divinity School*

A: The associate dean for research in your school or college as well as your department or school grants managers are your first contact for transferring projects from your prior institution.

Ingrid Wuerth
*Associate Dean for Research
Law School*

Ellen Goldring
*Associate Dean
for Research
Peabody College*

Peter Cummings
*Associate Dean
for Research
School of Engineering*

Your next step will be connecting with Sponsored Projects Administration (SPA), the central VU office managing proposal submission, non-financial award set-up, and contract and subaward negotiation and set-up.

Contact SPA at spa@Vanderbilt.edu.
