

GDR Minor Area Worksheet

Student's Name _____

All Ph.D. students will take a minimum of 12 hours of course work, normally at Vanderbilt, in a minor area or areas. The minor can be in another area of the Graduate Department of Religion or in another Department of the University, or it can be an interdisciplinary minor defined by a problem or theme proposed by the student. In the Religion, Psychology, and Culture area this requirement is satisfied by two minors. Competence in the minor area will be tested by a Qualifying Examination or paper, as negotiated with the minor area adviser. A minor in interdisciplinary studies may, under appropriate circumstances and with the approval of the adviser, include some courses related to a student's major area of studies. The Minor Area Worksheet should be completed by the adviser and kept in the student's permanent file in the Departmental office.
