

New MHS Courses, MHS 3890 Special Topics Courses, and Courses from Other Departments that Now Count for MHS Credit:

The courses below are approved for the following MHS credits. Please consult this list before submitting a course variance request.

For more information about your degree audit, please refer to <https://www.vanderbilt.edu/mhs/undergraduate/major/> or contact your MHS advisor.

Please note: As of Spring 2021, MHS 1500 Introduction to Microbiology will now be offered by the Biological Sciences department with a new course number and title: BSCI 3234 Microbiology (formerly Microbial, Ecology, & Evolution).

As of the 2021-2022 AY, MHS 3101 Human Anatomy and Physiology I (fall semester) and MHS 3102 Human Anatomy and Physiology II (spring semester) will now be offered by the Biological Sciences department with new course numbers: BSCI 2101 Human Anatomy and Physiology and BSCI 3101 Human Anatomy and Physiology II.

New MHS Courses for Fall 2022:

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Introduction to the Medical Profession

- Instructor: Michelle M. Grundy
- Counts toward MHS electives and the concentration in Health Behaviors and Health Sciences

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Mental Health Policy

- Instructor: Panka Bencsik
- Counts toward MHS electives, disciplinary requirement, and the concentration in Health Policies and Economies

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Mental Health in Adolescence

- Instructor: Jaime M. Bruce
- Counts toward MHS electives and the concentration in Health Behaviors and Health Sciences

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Families in Turbulent Times

- Instructor: Jaime M. Bruce
- Counts toward MHS electives and the concentration in Health Behaviors and Health Sciences

MHS 3890 Special Topics Courses for Fall 2022:

MHS 3890, Special Topics - Trauma, Violence, and Health

- Instructor: Jenel Cassidy
- Counts toward MHS electives and the concentrations in Inequality, Intersectionality, and Health Justice and Health Behaviors and Health Sciences

MHS 3890: Special Topics - LGBTQ Health Disparities

- Instructor: Kirsty Clark
- Counts toward MHS electives and concentrations in Health Policies and Economies; Health Behaviors and Health Sciences; and Inequality, Intersectionality, and Health Justice

MHS 3890: Special Topics - COVID and Society

- Instructors: Jonathan M. Metzl, Caroline R. Williams, and Celina Callahan-Kapoor
- Counts toward MHS CORE and concentrations in Global Health; Health Policies and Economies; Health Behaviors and Health Sciences; Inequality, Intersectionality, and Health Justice; and Medicine, Humanities, and the Arts
- No credit for students who took HUM 1610-01 in fall 2020.

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Introduction to the Medical Profession

- Instructor: Michelle M. Grundy
- Counts toward MHS electives and the concentration in Health Behaviors and Health Sciences

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Mental Health in Adolescence

- Instructor: Jaime M. Bruce
- Counts toward MHS electives and the concentration in Health Behaviors and Health Sciences

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Families in Turbulent Times

- Instructor: Jaime M. Bruce
- Counts toward MHS electives and the concentration in Health Behaviors and Health Sciences

MHS 3890, Special Topics - Introduction to Data Visualization

- Instructor: Torsten Sauer
- Counts toward MHS electives and disciplinary requirement (for the spring 2022 and fall 2022 semester only)

MHS 3890, Special Topics – Mental Health Policy

- Instructor: Panka Bencsik
- Counts toward MHS electives, disciplinary requirement, and the concentration in Health Policies and Economies

Courses in Other Departments Offered in Fall 2022:

ANTH 2113W, Food, Identity, and Culture

- Counts toward MHS electives, disciplinary requirement, and the concentration in Inequality, Intersectionality, and Health Justice

CSET 2500, Science for Everyone

- Counts toward MHS electives and disciplinary requirement

RLST 4834, Post-Freudian Theories and Religion

- Counts toward MHS electives and the disciplinary requirement