

OLLI AT VANDERBILT

Managing Your Mobile Device

Melissa Bussear and Alex Damiano

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO COVER?

Types of Devices

- Cell phones
- Smart phones
- Tablets
- Laptops

Functionality

- Utilities
- Apps

Connection

- Wifi
- Data
- Sharing

TYPES OF DEVICES

Cell phones: A phone that uses a cellular radio system to connect to a network.

Smart phones: A cell phone with a connection to the internet and an operating system (like iOS,

Smart Watches: A mobile device with a small touchscreen display, meant to be worn on the wrist.

Laptops: Mobile computers utilizing an operating system which connect to the internet through Wifi or a hard line.

Tablets: A mobile computer with an almost entirely touchscreen display.

FUNCTIONALITY

Utilities: Simple programs that are pre-installed on your device which perform simple tasks and optimize performance. Examples: Weather, Alarm, Navigation.

Applications: Programs which are typically installed by the user which can perform a diverse range of functions. Examples: Games, Music listening, Internet browsers.

FUNCTIONALITY

Device	Place/Receive Calls	Texting Capabilities	Internet Connection	Typing Capabilities	Activity Tracking	Reading
Cell Phone
Smart Phone
Smart Watch
Laptop
Tablets
Handheld Game Consoles

CONNECTION

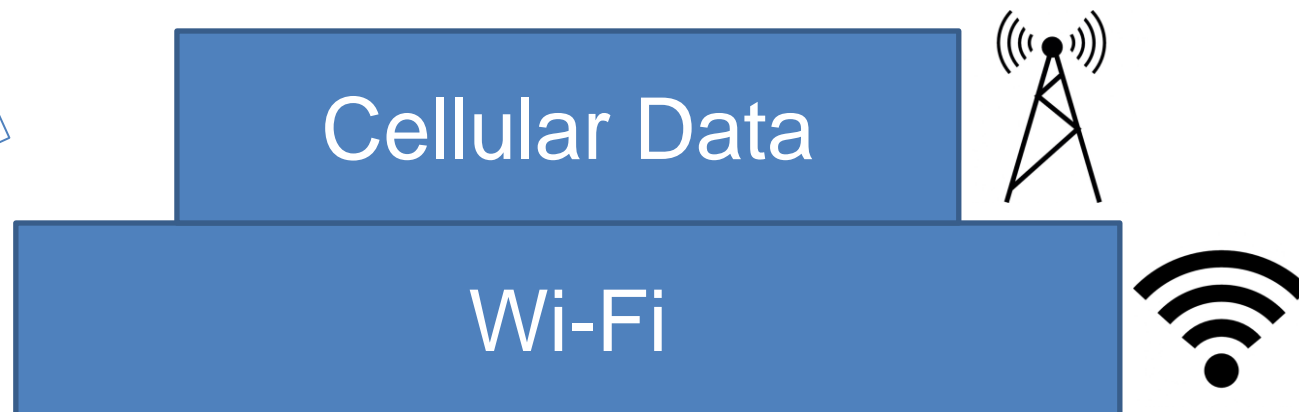

Cellular Radio: Can only be used to make and receive voice calls.

Wi-Fi/ Wireless Fidelity: Connects to the internet through a physical router. Limited distance.

Cellular Data: Data transmitted wirelessly using a global network of transmitters and receivers, like cell towers. Unlimited distance.

Blue Tooth: Connects your device to another device without the use of cables.

Let's Try It!

THANK YOU

Questions?

Call Melissa or Alex at
(615) 343-1130

FEEDBACK

- Write us an email please!
- Send your feedback to oshervu@vanderbilt.edu