All in The Decade: 70 Things About 70s TV That Turned Ten Years into a Revolution

At some point between Watergate and The Love Canal, between Nixon and Carter, between Vietnam and Afghanistan, between POWs and Americans Held Hostage, between Robert Altman and Steve Martin, between The Supremes and The Ramones, between Helen Reddy and Blondie, between Joe Namath and Pete Rose ... the 1970s happened. And TV tried to keep up. Or did the country try to keep up with TV? Heavy with clips and memories and shared history, the six-session class is based on the recently published book written by a longtime Hollywood TV executive. Like the book, it's divided up into five topics: FEMINISM (which identifies innovators and innovations in gender-based shows, from That Girl to Charlie’s Angels); INDIVIDUALISM (which spotlights the beginnings of minority inclusions, from Chico and the Man and Roots to TV’s first gays and Asians); COMMERCIALISM (which recounts the growth of TV as a business in the 1970s, from the arrival of HBO to the introduction of a fourth network); REALISM (which focuses on how TV turned from reflecting how things might be to how they really are, as seen in PBS’s culture-defining An American Family and in taboo movies like Born Innocent, which led to the infamous Family Hour); and ESCAPISM (which offered a break mid-decade with mindless fun like The Love Boat). ALL IN THE DECADE recounts ten years in the life of television and us!

Strategic Challenges in American Military History

This course will provide students with insight into the challenges faced by strategic leaders (including political and military personalities) throughout American military history and the reasons for their success or failure in resolving these challenges. Based on cases used for training Army senior leaders at the U.S. Army War College's U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center, each class will cover a different specific situation and will enhance the student’s understanding of strategic level leadership, the challenges it presents, and lessons learned.

Addressing Gender Issues in 21st Century Shakespeare

In three sessions we will explore gender in Shakespeare’s plays from historical, contemporary, and theatrical perspectives. From all male casts in 1600 to all female casts in 2020, Shakespeare’s plays are subject to gender bending. What role does gender play in the storytelling?

The Atlantic Slave Trade and Its Legacy in the U.S.

In the 1722 Battle of Cape Lopez off the coast of West Africa, a pirate fleet and the British navy faced off in a bloody battle that would decide the fate of the Atlantic Slave trade. Though the battle happened a full fifty-four years before the United States claimed its statehood in the Declaration of Independence, it shaped the type of nation the U.S. would become. The battle ended an era of competition with the Spanish, Dutch, and French, and ushered in British supremacy in the slave trade to America. As a result, the U.S. adopted the British system of chattel slavery, and became a true slave society: a society upon which all politics, religion, economy, labor, and social identities depended on the enslavement of Africans and their descendants. This courted generations of social ills that continue to ravage the nation and fuel our political and personal debates. This course will examine in detail a fascinating, swashbuckling story of Caribbean pirates, African princes and mercenaries, European slave traders, and the British navy, and places it into a uniquely American context. We’ll end the class with an examination of the ramifications of this caustic legacy for all Americans.

18 Things Every Tennessean Needs to Know About the State's Early History

In this series, Carole Bucy will give an overview of the history of the state of Tennessee from its beginnings up to the outbreak of the Civil War. She will discuss how the geography of the state has been a major factor in how the state’s history unfolded. She will emphasize the uniqueness of Tennessee’s historical experiences in contrast to other southern states and will discuss the many ways that Tennessee was in the national spotlight during this time period. Whether you are a native Tennessean or a newcomer, this class should be a lively learning experience.

Tai Chi – Introduction for Health, Balance, and Relaxation

There is a general lack of awareness and understanding about the ancient practice of Tai Chi Chuan - Supreme Ultimate Boxing. People know Tai Chi as a slow-moving exercise often seen in medical commercials performed by people looking happy and peaceful. There is a vague recognition that it is somehow “like yoga” and “good for you” and that is about it! Tai Chi is an easy-to-learn routine that improves health, balance, and relaxation. Tai Chi is low impact and can easily be done by everyone including seniors, people with illnesses and injuries, and even small children. In fact, it is a great exercise for these types of people due to the extraordinary health benefits that result from continued efforts. This course is appropriate for beginners and for people with past Tai Chi experience. We will learn about body alignment, gravity, motion, and power. We will practice deep breathing and strategies for relaxing and reducing anxiety. We will have fun and enjoy getting healthy together.

Religion in the News

Religion helps shape almost every part of the world—from what we eat and who we marry to national politics and international relations. In this class, we’ll look at the role that religion plays in the daily news and explore the faith of our neighbors, through the eyes of a religion journalist at a secular news organization. Class discussions will include an overview of the Nashville and national religious landscape, including the rise of the so-called “Nones”—those who have no religious affiliation, a lookback at the fight over the Murfreesboro mosque, profiles of congregations large and small, as well as religious sections like serpent handlers and cat cultists.

INSTRUCTOR:
Bob Smietana, National Writer

Larry Bartels
Larry Bartels has held the May Werthan Shayne Chair of Public Policy and Social Science at Vanderbilt University since 2011. His scholarship and teaching focus on public opinion, electoral politics, public policy, and political representation. His books include Unequal Democracy: The Political Economy of the New Gilded Age (2nd ed.) and Democracy for Realists: Why Elections Do Not Produce Responsive Government (with Christopher Achen). He is also the author of numerous scholarly articles and occasional pieces in the New York Times, Washington Post, and other outlets. Bartels is a trustee of the Russell Sage Foundation and a past vice president of the American Political Science Association. He has received APSA's Warren E. Miller Prize and Vanderbilt's Earl Sutherland Prize for Career Achievement in Research. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and a member of the National Academy of Sciences.

Carole Bucy
Carole Bucy is professor of history at Volunteer State Community College with degrees in history from Baylor University, George Peabody College, and Vanderbilt University. She also currently holds the honorary position of Davidson County Historian. As a longtime advocate for local and state history, she regularly conducts teacher workshops on the incorporation of Tennessee history into existing U.S. history courses and is a frequent speaker across the state on a variety of historical subjects. Her Nashville 101 and Nashville 102 classes, which many of you may have taken, continue to be filled to capacity. In October 2017, she traveled to Magdeburg, Germany, with a Nashville Sister Cities delegation and gave a talk there on Nashville history. Most recently she has been a researcher for the Nashville Public Library’s Votes for Women Room, which opened in February 2020, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of Tennessee ratification of the 19th Amendment that gave women across the United States the right to vote.

Denice Hicks
Denice Hicks has been working for The Nashville Shakespeare Festival since 1990 as an actor, director, and teaching artist, and has held the position of Artistic Director since 2005. Educated at Point Park University in Pittsburgh, she moved to Nashville in 1980 to perform at Opryland USA. Denice was an original company member of the Tennessee Repertory Theatre and was among the founders of the Darkhorse Theater. An Ingram Fellowship award winner, she has edited and directed touring productions of Shakespeare’s works, developed and facilitated workshops for students of all ages, and created the NSF Apprentice Company Training and Shakespeare Allowed! programming. She has been a guest lecturer at many universities; served as a Teaching Artist for TPAC, the Leonard Bernstein Center, Nashville Institute for the Arts, and the Folger Shakespeare Library Institute; and was a guest lecturer with the Cooperative Center for Study Abroad program for three weeks in Stratford-Upon-Avon and London.
Peter Hodes

Since childhood, Peter has always been interested in martial arts and in Asian culture. After graduating from the University of Florida in Asian Studies, and studying abroad in Japan, Peter began practicing Tai Chi Chuan in 1990 on a beach of Thailand. Beginning with a two-day workshop, he stayed for three additional weeks training daily and learning the traditional Yang-Style Tai Chi of Professor Cheng Man-Ching. After graduate school with an MBA and a Master of International Management (MIM), Peter was the founder and CEO of a software company in the emergency management sector. For 20 years, he was constantly in front of large groups of people training, educating, presenting, and public speaking across the country. During this period, Tai Chi was always important, and many teachers were found, workshops attended, and hours practiced. In 2017, Peter sold his company and, on a whim, began teaching Tai Chi classes in Nashville. The classes were an unexpected success and have continued to grow and expand since then. Now, Peter is a full-time Tai Chi teacher and a strong advocate for this amazing, healthful, and relaxing activity. Peter is ‘old school’ Nashville having attended H.G. Hill Elementary School and graduating from University School of Nashville in 1985.

Brandon Hulette

Brandon Hulette is a native of Franklin, TN, and has held a Commission in the Medical Service Corps, U.S. Army Reserve for the past 16 years. He is a graduate of Montgomery Bell Academy, has degrees in both Biological Science and Environmental Policy from the University of Tulsa, attended graduate schools in Public Health and Epidemiology at the

Dave Lewis

Dave Lewis’ research interests include the presidency, executive branch politics, and public administration. He is the author of two books, Presidents and the Politics of Agency Design (Stanford University Press, 2003) and The Politics of Presidential Appointments: Political Control and Bureaucratic Performance (Princeton University Press, 2008). He has also published numerous articles on American politics, public administration, and management in journals such as the American Journal of Political Science, the Journal of Politics, the British Journal of Political Science, Public Administration Review, and Presidential Studies Quarterly. His work has been featured in outlets such as the Harvard Business Review, New York Times, and Washington Post. He is a member of the National Academy of Public Administration and has earned numerous research and teaching awards, including the Herbert Simon Award for contributions to the scientific study of the bureaucracy and the Madison Sarratt, Jeffrey Nordhaus, and Robert Birkby awards for excellence in undergraduate teaching.

MARCIA A. MCDONALD

Marcia A. McDonald, Ph.D. in English, Vanderbilt University, is Professor of English at Belmont University, where she has taught courses in Shakespeare, Composition, and survey courses in English, European, and World literatures. She has served in several administrative positions at Belmont, including Provost and Associate Provost. In Shakespeare studies, her research interests and publications include topics in the comedies of the 1590s, social and cultural issues, and ecocritical approaches. Recent achievements include a NEH/Folger Shakespeare Library grant in collaboration with two Belmont colleagues to enable students to create a Nashville Shakespeare Performance Archive, which preserves in digital format, accessible via the Belmont University Library, performance clips, interviews, and backstories for NSF productions. In addition to guest talks on Shakespeare at various local schools and venues, she has lectured on Shakespeare at universities in France and China and has participated in national and international Shakespeare conferences. A longtime fan of the Nashville Shakespeare Festival, she has served two terms on the Board of Directors, recently completing a tenure of service as Board Chair. She facilitates the pre-show talks for summer and winter shows, connecting NSF audiences with Shakespeare scholars from local and regional universities.

JIM McKAIRNES

A 30-year veteran of the television industry, including 15 years as a senior CBS Scheduling executive, Jim McKairnes is a writer, teacher, and TV historian. He was born and raised in Philadelphia, graduating with a Journalism degree from the city’s Temple University. After careers in East-Coast magazine publishing and then Hollywood, he’s now based in Nashville, where he recently completed study on his Bucket List master’s degree and is currently at work on a new podcast and a series of guest lectures connected to his recent book All in the Decade: 70 Things About 70s TV That Turned Ten Years Into a Revolution. He loves teaching but also takes great pride in his part-time role in Guest Relations at the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum.

BRUCE OPPENHEIMPER

Oppenheimer’s research primarily focuses on Congress and American political institutions. His primary current interest examines how process changes have affected the ability of Congress to develop energy policy over the past half century. He is co-editor (with Lawrence Dodd) of Congress Reconsidered, the 9th edition of which was published by CQ Press in 2009. Oppenheimer’s book, Sizing Up the Senate: The Unequal Consequences of Equal Representation, co-authored with Frances Lee, won the D.B. Hardeman Prize for the best book on Congress. In addition, he has recently worked on projects examining why African-American House members rarely run for the U.S. Senate (with Gbemende Johnson and Jennifer Selin) and analyzing the effect of Iraq War deaths on congressional elections (with Christian Grose). He has been both an American Political Science Association Congressional Fellow and a Brookings Institution Fellow and Guest Scholar.
John Sides

John Sides studies political behavior in American and comparative politics. He is an author of Identity Crisis: The 2016 Presidential Campaign and The Battle for the Meaning of America, The Gamble: Choice and Chance in the 2012 Election, and Campaigns and Election: Rules, Reality, Strategy, Choice. He has published articles in various scholarly journals, including the American Political Science Review, American Journal of Political Science, British Journal of Political Science, and Journal of Politics. His current book project focuses on fiscal politics in the U.S. He helped found and serves as editor-in-chief of The Monkey Cage, a site about political science and politics at the Washington Post. He has also written for such outlets as FiveThirtyEight, the Boston Review, Bloomberg View, CNN, the Los Angeles Times, and the New York Times. He serves as Research Advisor to the Democracy Fund Voter Study Group and a member of the National Budgeting Roundtable.

Bob Smietana

Bob Smietana is an award-winning religion reporter and editor who has spent two decades producing breaking news, data journalism, investigative reporting, profiles and features for magazines, newspapers, trade publications, and websites. He is the former religion writer at the Tennessean, senior news editor for Christianity Today, OnFaith, USA Today and The Washington Post. He was editor in chief of Religion News Service from 2018 to September 2020 and recently was named national writer for RNS, an award-winning news outlet that specializes in coverage of religion, spirituality, and values. He is best known for his coverage of Islam and Islamophobia, including his comprehensive reporting on the Murfreesboro mosque conflict, and of evangelical Christianity, including the emotional journey of Pearl Joy Brown's family and the downfall of Bill Hybels, former pastor of Willow Creek Community Church, as well as coverage of serpent handling Pentecostal churches, small religious sects, and the rise and fall of Veggie Tales.

Angela Sutton

Angela Sutton is a postdoctoral fellow in the humanities at Vanderbilt University. She completed her Ph.D. in Atlantic History. Her focus is on Atlantic West Africa and the slave trade, and her dissertation includes an investigation of the pirates who participated in it. She has taught classes on slavery, the Atlantic World, research methods, writing, and piracy to students of all ages. She currently serves on the board of the Friends of Fort Negley, where she works to uncover and promote the African-American history of one of Nashville's most unique historic sites.

Sharece Thrower

Sharece Thrower is an Assistant Professor of Political Science at Vanderbilt University. Her research focuses on how both Congress and the courts constrain the president’s use of various policy instruments such as executive orders, signing statements, rulemaking, and regulatory review. Her scholarship has appeared in the American Journal of Political Science, the Journal of Law, Economics, and Organization, and Presidential Studies Quarterly. Currently, she is working on projects examining the following topics: how changes in legislative capacity over time influence the exercise of presidential power; the duration of executive policymaking; gubernatorial unilateral policymaking; and testing theories of delegation with a newly developed measure of statutory discretion. Prior to joining Vanderbilt University, she served on faculty in the Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh from 2013 to 2016. She received her B.A. from The Ohio State University in 2008 and her Ph.D. from Princeton University in 2013.

Alan Wiseman

Professor Wiseman’s research agenda addresses the impact of political institutions on political actors’ behavior and strategies, focusing substantively on legislative, electoral, and bureaucratic and regulatory politics in the United States. He is the author of The Internet Economy: Access, Taxes, and Market Structure (Brookings Institution Press, 2000), and has published research in journals including the American Political Science Review, Journal of Politics, Legislative Studies Quarterly, and Journal of Theoretical Politics. His current scholarship examines the impact of executive oversight of bureaucratic rulemaking and lawmaking in the United States and other developed democracies, and he is also writing a book on the causes and consequences of legislative effectiveness in the United States Congress, and studying the emergence and consequences of industry self-regulation in different product and service markets. Prior to joining the faculty of Vanderbilt University, he served on the faculty of The Ohio State University, where he directed the undergraduate public policy minor in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences. He has also been a visiting Associate Professor at Northwestern’s Kellogg School of Management; and he served as a visiting economic scholar with the U.S. Federal Trade Commission.

Policies and Procedures

Class Cancellation Policy
On rare occasions, we are forced to cancel classes for unforeseen circumstances. Should this occur, we will post a notice on our website and emails will be sent to enrolled members. For this reason, it is EXTREMELY IMPORTANT for all students to provide us with an up-to-date email address and to check your email on a regular basis.

Fee Structure
Courses are individually priced. Fees are listed on the Schedule-at-a-Glance and in the course descriptions.

Gift Certificates
Give the gift of learning! Gift certificates make great presents for birthdays, holidays, or other special events. Visit our website or call our office at 615-343-0700 for more information.

Guest Policy
OLLI students are welcome to bring a single guest one time during the term ONLY IF prior approval has been granted. To request pre-approval, call our office at 615-343-0700. We reserve the right to refuse unapproved guests.

Refund Policy
Due to the low cost at which these courses are provided and the additional cost it would take to process refunds, no refund is given for those who wish to withdraw from classes; however, members can transfer into a course (in the same term, in the same price tier) on a space-available basis.

Scholarship Program
OLLI is pleased to provide financial assistance for members who may be otherwise unable to take part in our OLLI community. Please visit our website for additional information.

Code of Conduct
OLLI at Vanderbilt’s goal is to create environments that maximize the learning experience for all members. Many of our programs offer a forum for the lively and sometimes passionate exchange of views. To that end, our learning community follows principles of courtesy and mutual respect that promote reasoned discourse and intellectual honesty. Opposing viewpoints are honored and appreciated to preserve the dignity of others.

Violations may include, but are not limited to, denigrating other’s views or opinions, threatening behaviors, offensive or abusive language, disruptive classroom conduct, sexual harassment or discrimination, and monopolizing discussions. Personal attacks will not be tolerated.

Members who do not or cannot adhere to these principles may be removed from class and/or activities and denied the privilege of future participation.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT
In an effort to be more environmentally responsible, our catalogs will be available to view on our website and sent via email only. NO CATALOGS WILL BE MAILED.
